

SULB - Saarland University and State Library

The SULB is the central library in addition to the many specialized libraries that exist on campus. It was founded in 1950. Together with the Medical Library in Homburg/Saar, it is the largest library in Saarland. Here you can find any basic literature for students, journals, magazines and current literature on all disciplines, such as the fields of English Studies, American Studies, German Studies, Romance Studies and Applied Linguistics in the reading rooms. In addition, e-books and e-journals are also offered, as well as a digitization platform.

Entrance of SULB

LOCATION: The SULB is located on the campus of Saarland University. It is about 4.7km to the city. By car it takes about 10 minutes, by bike about 15 minutes and by foot about 50 minutes. In the immediate vicinity of the campus is the Hermann Neuberger Sports School and a wildlife park. Likewise, the Rotenbühl campus of the University of Applied Sciences (htw saar) is very close by, 2.6km further to be exact. The campus of the UdS is very large and offers, among other things, a hairdresser, a student café, the Office of Student Affairs, the AStA and the Student Advisory Office. An internal campus bus from the "Universität Campus" stop takes you to the UdS canteen.

Reading Hall

The reading rooms are excellent for studying or writing a paper. When you are on site you have the possibility to lock away your bag and jacket in lockers. Drinks and snacks are allowed. Cell phones are not allowed in the reading room. In the library there is a WLAN access, smartboards, scanners, copiers and printers. There are free workstations and separate ones that you can reserve for yourself. Among them there are individual rooms, as well as group rooms. These are perfect to do your work undisturbed.

As a state library, the SULB offers literature from and about the Saarland. In total, the library offers about 1.7 million stock units, i.e. enough information material for everyone. As a rule, the holdings can all be borrowed. For this, one should observe the usage regulations.
